The Majority.

There are now two candidates for Mayor in the field. The City Delegates Convention having nominated Mr. J. N. Angier, the present incumbent, and Mr. George M. Mowbray having previously announced himself as a candidate (a position to which he still adheres), the people are at liberty to decide upon their respective claims and qualifications at the polls.

The Herald has hitherto taken no part in the canvass and will not at this time. Whichever preferences we may have personally expressed concerning candidates are not to be understood as affecting the position of the paper we represent, where no political issue is involved. We are glad there are two candidates before the people. It affords them an opportunity of passing their verdict upon the merits of the present administration and at the same time enlivens the contest for the most important official position in the municipal government.

Both candidates are prominently known in the community, and the election will simply be a test of their personal popularity. It only remains for the electors to prepare their ballots and render their decision on Friday next.

P. S.—Since writing the above, we learn it is not improbable there will be other candidates in the field.

The Internal Revenue Law.

Under the former Revenue law Assessors were required to take their annual list, incomes and licenses on the first of May; the time is now changed to March, and Assessors will proceed to their work as soon as the proper blanks are furnished them. Some important reductions and abolitions have been made in the present system. Last year incomes over $500 up to $2,000 were assessed five per cent., and incomes in excess of $2,000 ten per cent. Now $1,000 is the amount exempted, a clear saving of $20 to all persons coming within that provision, and there is also a deduction of five per cent. on the excess of $3,000; five per cent. being the uniform per cent. assessed in all cases. There is another important modification of the law, peculiarly affecting the titheholder. The late law required a return of the profits upon real estate bought and sold within the year, to be included in the amount of the income. But the new law extends the liability to return upon all profits on land bought in 1864, 1865, 1866, and sold in 1866. Millions of dollars were lost to the Government by not exacting a similar law a year or two since, during the speculation mania in these regions. The provisions in relation to deductions from fires, bad debts, &c., are retained in the new law. An abatement for house rent by a tenant and for necessary repairs by a house owner may still be claimed.

In estimating the profits, all interest derived from United States bonds or securities, shall be included, at the current value of the gold received, where the interest was payable in gold. All interest received on bonds, mortgages or notes, or loans, and all due thereon by solvent persons, but uncollected, must be returned. All sales of farm stock and produce must be reported, in lessening from accountancy so much as may have been consumed in the family; also all other income or gains from any source whatever, excepting the rental value of premises, which are occupied by the owner, this being a fair effect to the allowance of rent to others who do not own the premises in which they reside or occupy.

There must also be returned the value of all gains and profits in incorporated companies, or partnerships, which are not divided among the stockholders and partners. Where corporations, in making dividends, deduct the United States tax, the amount thus paid to stockholders is not necessary to return, having paid a tax already.

The principal branch of business pursued here which has been relieved by the new law is bar-making, the five per cent. ad valorem tax on barrels having been removed entirely. This, it is estimated, will reduce the revenue in this district about four dollars a thousand on cigars and twenty per cent. ad valorem in addition, now it is made five dollars a thousand on all grades. It is estimated that the changes made in the revenue law will reduce the national annual income from this source twenty-five millions of dollars.

UNION CITY CONVENTION.

The Union City Convention to nominate a candidate for Mayor, met at City Hall last evening. On motion J. H. Hunting, Esq., was chosen Chairman, and F. W. Guthrie Secretary and G. M. Lyon Assistant Secretary.

The roll of delegates from the four Wards was called and the following absentees were reported: S. T. Porter, Third Ward, A. Good and J. Donovan, Fourth Ward.

On motion a recess of thirty minutes was given (except the arrival).

A motion by Mr. Guthrie for the appointment of a committee of three on credentials was lost. Col. Cozwell moved that in the absence of delegates from the several Wards have power to elect to fill vacancies. Carried.

Mr. Guthrie moved that delegates from the First Ward wishing to retire have power to name their substitutes before doing so. Lost.

Mr. Guthrie moved that the Convention proceed to an informal ballot for Mayor and nominated J. J. McCrum.

Mr. C. H. Smith nominated George M. Mowbray.

Mr. J. H. King nominated J. N. Angier.

William Dillon nominated Thomas Goodwin.

Mr. Cozwell was also nominated, but declined to be considered a candidate.

The first informal ballot resulted as follows: J. J. McCrum, 11; Geo. M. Mowbray, 8; J. N. Angier, 13; Thos. Goodwin, 7; A. W. Barriger, 1. Total vote, 40.

A second informal ballot was then taken with the following result: J. J. McCrum, 21; Geo. M. Mowbray, 8; J. N. Angier, 13; Thos. Goodwin, 7. Mr. Guthrie then moved that the Convention proceed to a formal ballot. Lost.

A third informal ballot was then taken with the following result: J. J. McCrum, 19; G. M. Mowbray, 7; J. N. Angier, 13; Thos. Goodwin, 9.

On motion of W. L. Abbott the Convention then proceeded to a formal ballot, with the following result: J. J. McCrum, 10; J. N. Angier, 21; Thos. Goodwin, 9.

Mr. Guthrie stated that the delegates from the First Ward wished to withdraw from the Convention before the nomination was declared, for the reason that the delegates from the Second Ward did not represent the views and wishes of the Second Ward, and was packed, and the delegates of the First Ward did not intend to stand it, and be bound by this result, but would support an independent ticket.

Col. Cozwell stated that Mr. McCrum had informed him that he should abide by the expression of this Convention. Mr. C. declined any personal feeling in the matter, and said he believed every candidate would be governed by the decision of the Convention.

Mr. Guthrie and his friends withdrew; the result of the last ballot was declared, and on motion, the Convention adjourned.

Temperance Meeting at City Hall—Lecture by Rev. J. A. Davidson—Organization of a Good Templar Lodge.

To-night the Rev. J. A. Davidson, of Erie, State Lecturer of the I. O. of G. T., will deliver a Lecture on Temperance, in City Hall, preparatory to the organization of a Lodge of Good Templars in this city.

Mr. Davidson enjoys the reputation of an accomplished orator, and is a veteran in the service of the Temperance cause. For several months past he has been engaged in the work of organizing Lodges throughout the adjoining counties, and with the most gratifying results. He visits Titusville by invitation of the Temperance League, and it is hoped that the subject of his address will prove of sufficient interest to attract a good audience.

There will be no charge for admittance. Messrs. Broad and Scoville, the proprietors of the Hall, have kindly donated its use for this occasion.

Judge Derrickson for Supreme Court Judge.

The name of Judge Derrickson, of Meadville, has been suggested in connection with the nomination for the Supreme Bench to be made by the next Regularly State Convention. Such a selection would be an eminently proper one, and especially gratifying to the bar of Erie, Crawford and Warren counties and the people of the judicial district. As President Judge for ten years in this district Judge D. exhibited all the qualities of the best of his order, bearing dignity and courtesy of bearing and an unflinching patience and industry. It is highly proper, and justly due this Republican stronghold that can always be counted on for raising and electing Republican majorities, that the candidate should be taken from this locality, and with Hon. David Derrickson on the Supreme bench, "the State would have the right man in the right place."

The Titusville Court Scheme.

From the Meadville Republican.

A fortnight since considerable excitement was raised in town, especially among the legal fraternity, on a report that a bill was before the Legislature to authorize a session of our County Court to be held at Titusville—in a word to make Titusville a joint city-town with Meadville. It was given out that Hon. D. A. Finney was to go to Harrisburg to aid in the passage of the bill. A meeting of the bar was held and Messrs. Henderson, Role and Putts were appointed a committee to visit Harrisburg and use their influence against any such legislation. At the same time the kindred law firm, Messrs. Finney and Finney, were also in the city, and it was ascertained whether there was any foundation for the report, and we have since ascertained that our judgment was correct. No such bill has been brought before the Legislature nor is it probable that any legislation of the kind will be introduced.

Mr. Finney did not go to Harrisburg in behalf of any legislative measure. He passed through there on his way to Washington to take his seat as a member of the 41st Congress. The story, according to reliable authority, was a mere tale from the creation of a noted body of this city, who are ever anxious to get up something that may excite the people and create a stir in the kindred law firm, and was as much a source of amusement at the Capital as a cause of excitement here.

The victims of this ridiculous "scheme" will have felt exceedingly cheap on reaching Harrisburg. They had previously telegraphed to Speaker Hall to "hold on to the bill at all hazards," and the Speaker responded "he would." But the sharpest investigation failed to discover that such a bill had been introduced, or even contemplated. The impracticability of such a measure appears on its face, and our citizens have no expectation of a "dividing" either the courts or the county.

CRATCHEVILLE DISORDER.—At a Union caucus held on Monday evening the following nominations were made for borough officers:

For Burgess—Washington Wilson; Council—Henry Noble, Leonard Post, Ezra Post, William Nash, C. C. Bailey, Constable—William Corry; High Constable—Samuel Post; Judge of Election—Fred. Clark; Inspectors of Election—Henry Fields, James Sherman; Assessor—Lawrence Whittier; Assistant Assessor—Watson Goodrich; Lorin Wood; School Directors—A. F. Waid, M. D. Goo, Bennett.

NEW SETTLEMENT WELL.—This well, located about sixty feet from the old Settlement well, in the borough of Meadville, is now being tested, and proves equally as good as the former, yielding fifteen and twenty barrels per day. It is bored with the same machinery as the old one and is about the same depth, 300 feet.

A well on the old Tynel Farm, just practically tested proves to be about sixteen barrels. It is one mile east of Pleasantville.

The Struggle in Crete.

There is now every probability that the gallant and heroic stand made by the Christians in the island of Crete against the terrible Mussulman depredations will be rewarded—as it should be—by the accomplishment of their desires. The Turkish Sultan will hardly dare to refuse the advice of the Emperor of Russia to cede Crete to the kingdom of Greece, where, by sympathy of race, and religion, and language, it properly belongs. It ought to have been included in the treaty which organized Greece soon after the battle of Navarino, in 1827. The late bloody struggle and nearly forty years of grinding oppression have been the sad fruits of this diplomatic mistake. It is evident that Turkey is doomed. Encouraged by these successful insurrections against its authority, other districts and provinces where the Christians largely predominate in numbers, will make haste to follow the example that has been thus set them. The natural result would appear to be the formation of an independent and powerful Christian State upon the ruins of the Turkish despotism. In this way the Cross may replace the Crescent, and a State be formed on the banks of the Bosphorus which, sustained by the Western Powers, will be a counterpoise to Russian ambition in that quarter.

Gustave Flourens, a French author of considerable note, is serving as a volunteer in Crete in the war against the Turks. A letter from him, dated Omalos, January 7, 1867, has been published, in which he says that the Turkish army, composed mainly of Egyptians, seems to be paralyzed by the cold which in the mountains is severe even for Europeans. He says that the country is the most picturesque that can be imagined. It resembles Switzerland. But the people, ground down by Turkish tyranny are miserable and forlorn, living in hovels which resemble the dens of animals more than human habitations. Their sufferings, however, have not corrupted the Creteans, nor broken their spirit. Mr. Flourens says that they are worthy of liberty, worthy of all that Greece, their mother country, does for them. They have an ardent love of independence and equality, and they are hospitable, courageous, very intelligent and eager for knowledge in the midst of the profound darkness into which despotism has plunged them. There can be no doubt that once it has recovered its liberty, this interesting people, as small as it is, will make the greatest and most rapid progress. It has known how to resist systematic degradation, and none of its defects have been able to lessen its great bravery. It has never ceased to have faith in the triumph of justice and right.

"Sobriety of a noble and generous soul. He observes the expression of his eyes, and you can not conceive of a more thoughtful or noble or noble sentiment in his generous soul. His voice is gentle and melodious, and when he speaks to me in the beautiful language of Homer, he seems to carry me back three thousand years, and make me live again by the side of the Achilles and Ajax of Iliad, whose noble and heroic deeds are a high and intelligent forehead, this is the face of a man who is a small, but a stranger, who have no other interest than that of humanity."

Letter from Erie.

Erie, March 11, 1867.

To write or not to write, "that's the question." Whether it is better the mind to dissent in vain search for something to say, or to die an ignominious death and suffer oneself to be forgotten by the more intelligent readers of the Herald.

Spring approaches and snow old winter with his cold frosty coverings and blustering winds, has been receding from view, while the piercing March winds, before which the solid ice and remaining drifts of snow disappear more rapidly than under a scorching sun, remind us that "after the storm there will be a calm."

We may welcome the return of old gray-beard at another time; but now we look for young spring in all its virgin freshness, which comes to awaken us, as it were, into a new life. We long to see dear robin-red-breast and the swallow, and for those warm bright days that cause the buds to start, unfolding by degrees, and the flowers to open, and the leaves to expand.

In nature's business of great affairs, we are having fine muddy weather here, with our broad winds, render it very agreeable getting about. These lake breezes which are often pronounced an objection to the climate, are on the whole, extremely exhilarating. We should not hesitate to recommend this climate to any one that likes it, and especially to physicians and convalescents.

Business has "picked up" a little during the past few weeks, however the increase is scarcely perceptible as yet. There are many, especially in the country, who have been waiting for goods to come down, but this cannot last much longer, and as spring advances they must purchase more or less, when we hope to see things "loosen up" a little in business circles. Yet the unsettled condition of political and commercial affairs generally, is a serious impediment to a lively spring trade.

Our city election occurs on Friday, the 15th inst. The issues are improvement and anti-improvement. J. R. Cochran, Esq. has received the wire-puller's nomination of the Union party, for Mayor, but is also the anti-improvement candidate. It is hoped that a thorough-going improvement candidate will be brought out, independent of party, and whether he be Republican or Democrat, he would be elected by an overwhelming majority. All the city press favors such a movement, except the Gazette, which is joined to the old party—Lowry excepted. It is a burning shame that no here a place as Erie, with all its boasted advantages, should be without public water-works, a city had, efficient gas-works, street cars, good pavements, &c.

The bug-har of taxation is, but a worn out plea for old loggery, whose days, I wish to hope, are numbered. We live in an old place full of wealth, possessing every natural or circumstantial advantage, and have but to be alive to be able to use it. Hereafter we shall move with those around us.

The Walcott Literary Association flourishes beyond all precedent for a new organization. Their reading-room is already a popular place of resort, and there is every reason to believe that they will be successful in establishing a circulating library at an early day. The lecture of "Josh Billings" the humorist, and Miss Clara Barton, the Florence Nightingale of the American war, under the auspices of this Association, were eminently successful in all respects. We are informed that the Association have engaged Speaker Colfax who will visit us immediately after the 60th Congress adjourns.

P. S. Since writing the above, I have seen the letter of Orange Noble, Esq., consenting to the use of his name as the People's candidate for Mayor. There is little doubt of his election by a handsome majority.

FELTON MARKER.—This establishment, on Diamond street, has acquired a very enviable reputation. Mr. Crain, the proprietor, takes considerable pride in securing for his customers, the best heaves that can be had, and his yard is always supplied with calves and sheep, killed expressly for the Fulton chamber. There was a very attractive display yesterday of beef, veal, mutton and pork, and will be again to-day. Prices as low as the lowest.
